DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF WASHINGTON COUNTY

VOLUME IV.

SPRINGFIELD, KY., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 19, 1908.

NUMBER 37

SUCCESS FINANCIALLY

And In Every Respect Was the Washington County Fair.

Receipts Larger This Year Than Last, Notwithstanding the Money Stringency.

The Forty-sixth annual meeting of the Washington County Fair Association was a success in every particular. It was socially a success; it was a success financially. It was an up-to-date exhibition.

Excepting one day it was "tranquil, sublime and uplifting." On this particular day some individual, or individuals, distributed, gratuitously, or "in consideration of," a quantity of "red water," in which were various disturbing elements. Whether the aforesaid "red water" was distributed out of the freedom of the heart, or for pecuniary reward, or just for the purpose of letting it be seen that "such is possible" in a community that is dry, we are not prepared to say. However, it was very clearly and forcibly demonstrated that it is better for the peace, happiness and contentment of the community to put biting booze as far away as possible.

Secretary Theo. C. Campbell deserves much credit for the success of the Fair. He was untiring in his efforts to promote the interests of the Association. President W. S. Gibbs and Treasurer T. Scott Mayes also deserve credit for the success of the meeting.

The first day, or Ladies' Day, was well attended. Floral Hall was artistically decorated, and the display was elegant. The lace work, embroidery, carpets, rugs and other articles were interesting and beautiful, and the delicacies were good to look upon.

The fruit and melon displays were interesting features.

In the poultry show was every specimen of fowls. The display will doubtless cause many people to pay more attention to the poultry industry.

School Children's Day was attended by a record-breaking crowd, and every one seemed to enjoy the annual feast of good cheer and merriment.

The third day, cattle day, afforded some of the best entries ever yet presented to lovers of fine cattle and will doubtless cause many to endeavor to improve their herds.

The baby show proved a very entertaining feature in which much interest was manifested. Many pretty babies were entered in the beauty contest for "the prettiest girl baby" under one year of age.

In the high class harness and saddle rings were some of the best horses that have ever been exhibited here, and there were a number of good entries in the different rings on each day that caused great applause and close decisions.

Saturday, the fourth and last day, witnessed another unusual crowd. If any difference the entries on this day were better than those on previous days. The roadster rings and double team entries were second to none in this part of the state, and were a source of great pleasure for all stockmen.

Last year the Fair was a record-breaker, both from the standpoint of attendance and finances, and it was not thought possible that the Fair this year, in the lap of the panic, could equal last season's meeting. But it surpassed it, the receipts being considerably more.

Party Fortunate.

LaRue Herald: The Democratic party was fortunate in securing the able services of Hon. Ben Johnson as the Chairman of the State Democratic Campaign Committee. Now, if it can be equally as fortunate in securing the services of good men to act as the chairmen of the county campaign committees, Mr. Taft's friends had as well not take Kentucky into consideration at all. We believe that almost every Republican in the State who knows Mr. Johnson felt that his selection for the position of Chairman eliminated all doubt as to how the State would go.

THE FIRST INSTALLMENT

Of "THE MAN OF THE HOUR," will appear in next week's issue of The Sun. It is the strongest story that has been given to the public in a long time. Don't fail to read the opening chapters next week.

DEMOCRATS

Certain to Carry Ohio; Looks Like Majority Will Be Overwhelming.

Courier-Journal: The Hon. Ollie James, Representative from the First Kentucky district, arrived in Louisville last night from Cincinnati, where he spoke Saturday at a big Democratic rally. He said that he had seldom in his experience seen so much enthusiasm displayed as was shown by the Democrats of Cincinnati and Hamilton county at the rally on Saturday and that it bodes ill for the Republican party in that State.

He said that the people simply went wild when Judge Judson Harmon, the Democratic candidate for Governor, arose to address them, and this enthusiasm was again displayed when former Gov. James E. Campbell, the party's candidate for United States Senator, made his address. He said Judge Harmon expressed the belief that the country was ripe for Democratic victory this year and that so far as Ohio was concerned the Democratic candidate never felt surer of anything than he does of carrying the State by an overwhelming majority in November. Congressman James said the crowd at Saturday's rally was not only made up of Democrats, but contained people of every political faith, all of whom showed by their enthusiasm that they looked to the Democratic party to redeem the country and carry out the promises so long delayed by the Republicans.

While no definite date has as yet been made by the Democratic Campaign Committee for the opening of the campaign in Kentucky, Congressman James will address the Democrats of Western Kentucky at an old fashioned Democratic barbecue and rally at Loveland, Ballard county. He said the Democrats of Ballard, McCracken, Graves, Hickman and Carlisle counties had planned to gather at the rally and that arrangements were being made to entertain the biggest crowd ever present at a political rally in Western Kentucky.

Freak of Nature.

A freak of nature that proved to be a popular exhibition during the Fair, was "Tony, the Alligator Boy," who was exhibited by T. H. Woodruff, of Shreveport, La., and was something worth the price of admission to anyone who attended. Those who saw it declare it the most remarkable freak on exhibition; really and truly a curiosity to Doctors and a puzzle to modern science.

MISS RUBEL

Will Appear at Springfield Opera House Tuesday Evening, Sept. 1.

(Contributed.)

Music lovers, and people of culture generally, will be glad to learn that Miss Edith Rubel is to come to us with her violin for a concert this fall before going back to New York to continue her work there. It will be more than a pleasure; it is a privilege that we are to have her, for she has chosen to play in only two places—here, and in Knoxville, Tenn. She is coming at the solicitation of so many of us who heard her beautiful program at the Lebanon Chautauqua, and who were so delighted and charmed with her work that we wanted more of her for ourselves, and that all the others who were not so fortunate might have the opportunity over here.

Miss Rubel is more than a beautiful violinist; she is an artist. For a long, long time we have known that she played well, and in the early days of her development she came here once and charmed us with her very beautiful playing, but now we must recognize something more. We must recognize that she is becoming, if, indeed, the fact be not already accomplished, a finished artist, a well known Concert player, who is gaining recognition and acknowledgement among the people of worth in her profession. Last year she played in New York in some exceedingly interesting places, and frequently assisted Mr. Carl Venth, the composer, in his programs. She appeared before the National Arts Club, the Three Arts Club, the Waldorf-Astoria, the Progress Club, Columbia University at Carnegie Hall, St. Mark's Church, Christ's Church, and many, many other places in Recitals which prove to us very conclusively that she is being recognized and valued in that city of artists. Just now it will be interesting to hear her. She will study and play in New York one more year, and then go abroad to find the complete and ultimate thing which will make her, at last, the great artist. Probably, when all this has been worked through, she may come to us again. We shall be especially happy to hear her now, and, if it should be possible, to hear her then; it will be more than interesting to follow her career. Miss Rubel is a delightful person, and a delightful musician, and Springfield will be so glad of this opportunity to show her our appreciation of her coming to us, and playing for us. We shall not any of us be willing at all to miss this extremely happy opportunity to hear her play again, and to show her how delighted we are to have her come to us. By the way, the date of the Recital is Tuesday, the first of September, and the seats will be on sale at the Red Cross Drug Store, and we must not fail to remember that date, or to get good seats before somebody else shall have gotten there ahead of us. The summer will be over; the fairs will be finished, and the time of the Opera House is come. It is fortunate to have it open so delightfully for us.

Mrs. Crawford, of Louisville, will accompany Miss Rubel on the piano, and all Louisville knows how very beautifully she plays. She, too, is an artist of exceeding ability.

Miss Von Phul, of Cincinnati, has been secured for the evening as Reader. We should not ever get tired of the music, but nothing could be so entertaining that we would not be willing to "stop off" for a bit with Miss Von Phul. Her work is very, very clever. At last year's Chautauqua she gave an evening which was accounted, by many who heard every program, the most delightful, entertaining and clever event of them all. Miss Von Phul is sure to interest and delight any audience. Her humorous selections are particularly happy. Those who heard her last year will be extremely glad of another opportunity, and those who did not will be very glad to get one. The whole occasion will probably be one of the most delightful affairs ever given in the Springfield Opera House, and we do not any of us want to miss it. Nobody should feel able to afford to miss it. S. R.

TOBACCO MEETING.

Committee Appointed to Look After Matter of Disposing '08 Crop.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Washington County Warehouse Company was held in Springfield Monday afternoon in the Court House to decide what disposition shall be made of the warehouse in this city. When the meeting was called it was expected that a number of Lexington gentlemen, who have been negotiating for the buildings and drying plant, would be present and that some sort of definite understanding would be arrived at. However, the Lexington men, who were thought to be very much interested, did not show up, and the meeting was then conducted along different lines from those at first mapped out.

Judge I. H. Thurman, who presided at a former meeting, was continued as Chairman. He made a brief speech, stating the object of the meeting, and offering quite a number of valuable suggestions to the stockholders of the Warehouse Company and to the tobacco farmers. He was followed by Mr. McChord, who spoke at length, detailing the work of the growers in the past, and mapping out a work for the future. Mr. McChord's speech was enthusiastically received.

At the conclusion of Mr. McChord's speech, Judge Thurman suggested that a motion be made to appoint a committee of ten to formulate plans for the disposition of the 1908 crop of tobacco in this county. The motion was made and seconded and was unanimously carried. It was moved and seconded that the motion adopted that the Chair be empowered to appoint the committee, which was not done until after adjournment. Judge Thurman then suggested that the duties of the Committee shall be to ascertain whether or not the present growing crop shall be placed in charge of the Warehouse Company here. The committee is to find out the cost of handling the tobacco, and in what manner it is to be disposed of. A price is to be made on the tobacco, and, in this way, every farmer who places his tobacco with the Washington County Warehouse Company will know just what he is to receive for his crop.

The following committee was appointed: T. Scott Mayes, Chairman; John Lily Barber, Lloyd Hayden, Jas. Epperson, Cal. Shewmaker, J. C. McElroy, W. A. Clements, Luther Burns, George Mayes and W. C. McChord. After the appointment of the committee a meeting was immediately held, but it was decided to take no definite action until next Friday when the committee will again meet. At the meeting next Friday the plans will be discussed, and if the committee thinks the interests of Washington county tobacco growers can best be promoted by adopting the plans suggested above, another meeting of tobacco growers will be called at once to hear the committee's report. If the committee's plans are adopted, a committee of five will be appointed, and will be given charge of the 1908 crop, with instructions to dispose of it at a stated price. However, if the sale cannot be made the crops will be turned over to the individual owners.

BROWN & THURMAN

To Conduct Big Public Sale On Tuesday, Sept. 1.

To close a partnership business Judge I. H. Thurman and Mr. H. E. Brown will conduct a public sale on Sept. 1. The sale will be one of the largest ever held in Springfield, and will doubtless be attended by a large crowd. Many head of fine stock will be sold, besides farming implements of all sorts. Sale will begin at 10 a. m. Dinner on the ground. See their page advertisement in this issue.

Teachers Needed.

The demand for qualified teachers is greater than the supply. The present educational awakening in the State and the application of the new school laws are creating many new positions for qualified men and women who are engaged in the teaching service. Under the Normal school law, the Board of Regents has the right to cause to students completing certain courses of study certificates which entitle them to teach anywhere in Kentucky without examination. Eligible persons sixteen years old and older have a right to enter the Normal on free tuition. An illustrated catalog giving full information mailed on application. Address H. H. Cherry, Bowling Green, Ky.

A Pleasant Visit.

Last week Mr. Cal. Shewmaker saw for the first time his three grandsons, all of whom reside at Mackville. Notwithstanding Mr. Shewmaker lives only a short distance from Mackville, he saw the children for the first time last week. To relieve Mr. Shewmaker of the attitude of indifference we may add that the boys were just a few days old. They are the children of Messrs. B. M. Shewmaker, Cornelius Gillispie and John Hayden. They are all Democrats, and Uncle Cal. informs The Sun that they will crowd over Bryan's election next November.

TO THE FARMERS OF WASHINGTON COUNTY.

MR. BRYAN HAS CALLED UPON THE FARMERS of the nation for contributions to the campaign fund, and as the farmers of Washington county have always been found in the front ranks battling for just causes—battling for the rights of the people—The Sun calls upon them for contributions to the fund. Mr. Bryan's election will mean the destruction of those vampire-interests which have blood-sucked the farmer for a decade; his election will mean the restoration of "equal rights to all," it will mean that exclusive privileges will no longer be granted from the Seat of the National Government to gluttonous classes.

The Democratic National Committee, at the suggestion of Mr. Bryan, refuses to ask, or accept, contributions from corporations. The fight for the supremacy of Democracy is to be made, and paid for, by the great common people. There are hundreds of farmers of Washington county who can, and no doubt will, contribute liberally to the fund.

Fill out the following blank and mail, together with contribution, to The Sun:

The ABC and XYZ of ADVERTISING

A SERIES OF TEN TALKS ON ADVERTISING

written by Seymour Eaton of Philadelphia

No. 3

The owner of a retail hat store writes me to ask how to advertise hats.

I don't know. I haven't thought much about hats. Ten to one I should do something revolutionary; perhaps advertise to buy the customer's old hat. As a rule he is glad to get rid of it. Of course that would cut the profit in two, but then the sales would multiply by ten, or perhaps by fifty, and the store would get talked about.

Perhaps I wouldn't do that at all. I make the suggestion simply to let this hat dealer know that if I owned his store I should get up and shake myself; make some sort of a noise; not stand around behind the counter leaning on everything, waiting for a customer who is six blocks away on the other side of the street going north to change his mind, come back, cross over, and by mere chance in his hurry notice that I have hats in my window.

Tell a hundred thousand men who wear hats and who buy two hundred thousand hats a year that you have the goods; the kind they are looking for. If that doesn't wake them up then give away a hat-band and a necktie and a pair of gloves; cram the hats full of ham sandwiches; do something. Your business is to sell hats, not store them.

I have no patience with the retail dealer who depends on the sidewalk and the weather for his trade.

But it isn't necessary to be sensational; simply make readable news of your advertising. It is the business of the newspapers to distribute news and if I want a moderate priced stylish hat your advertising is ten times more interesting to me than the Associated Press dispatch that some galoot in Oklahoma or Texas hanged himself.

Good advertising is news. Print this on the ceiling over your bed so that you will read it first thing every morning when you wake up.

Keep your eye on fashion.

Fashion is today the biggest influence in the world; not necessarily the best influence; but the biggest. We don't control fashion; fashion controls us. It always comes down the pike with a whirl. When the storm breaks haul in your advertising canvas and stop buying. Fashion hurricanes are short-lived.

Keeps His Promises.

Shelby Sentinel: The unstinted praise that followed the election of Hon. Ben Johnson to the position of Governor of his party is the highest testimonial he could receive as to his fitness. Brains coupled with honesty is a difficult proposition to down and Ben has these to an exceptional degree. Of all the politicians in the state, Ben Johnson is the only one who has the reputation of keeping his promises. This faith in him in old Nelson, where he hails from, and where he is best known, is as firm and unshaken as the rocks of Gibraltar. Coupled with all of the above he is a successful politician, which fact means that Kentucky will surely be placed in the Democratic column, with a good, round, substantial majority, large enough to satisfy the most exacting.

For Sore Feet.

"I have found Bucklen's Arnica Salve to be the proper thing to use for sore feet, as well as for healing burns, sores, cuts, and all manner of abrasions," writes Mr. W. Stone, of East Poland, Maine. It is the proper thing too for piles. Try it! Sold under guarantee at Hayden & Robertson's drug store. 25c.

LONG ISLAND WOMAN

Bitten By a Cat Arranges Affairs and Then Waits the End.

Baldwin, L. I., August 10.—Knowing that she was dying from hydrophobia, Mrs. Jane G. Turnbull, 52 years old, imitated the example of the late Dr. William H. Marsh, who fell victim to the same malady last May, by arranging all her worldly affairs an hour before the end came. She directed her husband to have her body cremated and the ashes taken to Scotland, her native country, for burial in a little graveyard next to a Sunday-school she had attended when she was a child. Her display of fortitude in the face of death was almost equal to that of the Brooklyn physician, but it was more remarkable, not only because of her sex, but by reason of the fact that until the last hour, when she grew composed, she had been terrified by the thought that she was doomed. Dr. Marsh had known the inevitable for days before it occurred, and a man of science himself had time to cool himself to meet it. Moreover, while his dying moments were made painless by the administration of opiates, she endured the agony of the disease almost to her last breath. About three months ago a white cat of no particular breed strayed into her home and Mrs. Turnbull made a pet of it. One day not long afterwards she was playing with it when it jumped at her and bit her nose. The wound was not deep, but a physician was called and he cauterized it, expressing the opinion that it was not of a serious character. After biting its mistress the cat disappeared, but a few days later it wandered back again. Mrs. Turnbull at once became so nervous that her husband took a shotgun and killed the animal. Although the injury gave no trouble as the days passed, Mrs. Turnbull constantly worried about it, and even now there is a question as to whether her death might not have been induced by what is called auto suggestion.

Ain't It Awful, Mabel?

Lebanon Enterprise: We presume that it is eminently proper for candidates for "the highest office within the gift of the people" to talk into phonographs and to "can" just as many speeches as they wish to. However until Mr. Taft, consented to preserve a few of his talks we were led to believe that Mr. Bryan had committed about the most undignified act a candidate for the presidency had ever been guilty of since time began. But then you know circumstances alter cases, and it is not probable that Mr. Bryan will longer be maligned by Republican newspapers for having talked into a phonograph. If those speeches of Mr. Taft's are anything like as long as his speech of acceptance, delivered a short time ago in Cincinnati, the records must be about the size of steam boilers.

Death of Mrs. Trainer.

Mrs. Margaret Trainer, an old and respected lady, who resided here, died yesterday, and funeral services were conducted this morning at the Catholic church. She was well-liked by all who knew her and was a devout Christian woman. She leaves several children who have the sympathy of all in their bereavement.

She Likes Good Things.

Mrs. Chas. E. Smith, of West Franklin, Maine, says: "I like good things and have adopted Dr. King's New Life Pills as our family laxative medicine, because they are good and do their work without making a fuss about it." These painless purifiers sold at Hayden & Robertson's drug store. 25c.

Children's Fair.

The children of Springfield and Washington county will give a Fair at the Fair grounds August 29. It goes without saying that it will be an interesting event, and will no doubt be largely attended. Admission 15c and 25c.

Excellent Health Advice.

Mrs. M. M. Davison, of No. 379 Gifford Ave., San Jose, Cal., says: "The worth of Electric Bitters as a general family medicine, for headache, biliousness and torpor of the liver and bowels is as pronounced that I am prompted to say a word in its favor, for the benefit of those seeking relief from such afflictions. There is more health for the digestive organs in a bottle of Electric Bitters than in any other remedy I know of." Sold under guarantee at Hayden & Robertson's drug store. 50c.

Nature's Decoration.

During the past few months in Switzerland and France there have been brought to light several caverns in which petrification of water has wrought marvelous effects of crystaline decoration. The last of these to be announced is a magnificent grotto laid bare by a fall of rock at the Pointe du Taland, Canton of Belle Isle-en-Mont. The grotto is accessible at low tide.

Plants That Are Poisonous.—Many harmless plants contain poison. Daffodil and narcissus pickers are troubled with a skin disease known as "daffodil poisoning." Gatherings form under the fingernails. LONG LICK.

Mrs. Mary Mayes died at the home of her husband, Mr. James H. Mayes, Sunday night, August 9, after an illness of two years of a complication of diseases. Mrs. Mayes was a member of the Christian church at Mackville, and was a true Christian. She was always ready to help the sick and suffering until ill health fell upon her. She was patient through all her suffering and was glad when death relieved her.
She leaves a husband and three sons,
several sisters and brothers and a host of relatives and friends to mourn their loss. We extend our sincere sympathy to the bereaved ones.

Mrs. Skeans is still very ill.
Royce, the little son of Mr. and Mrs.
Henry Laham, is very ill of brain and spinal trouble.

Mr. J. H. Mayes lost a valuable cow
last week.

Mr. Ed Graves lost a mule Sunday.

Died of Typhoid Fever.

The death of Mr. Joseph Ray Smith
on last Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock at his home near Springfield was a great shock to his friends and relatives. He died of typhoid fever after an illness of only ten days. He was thought to be some better Saturday.

Ray was a young man of exceptionally good habits, true to the church in which he and his forefathers for generations were reared. He was kind and gentle to his sisters and brothers, and dutiful and affectionate to his widowed mother. He had just passed his 18th birthday. He leaves his mother, four brothers and four sisters to mourn his untimely end, besides a large circle of friends and relatives. He was buried at St. Rose church Monday morning with all the beautiful rites and ceremonies that the Catholic church accords a faithful member. We deeply sympathize with the bereaved family. B. & E.

Only a Baby.

Only a baby,
You dimpled thing!
Weak and helpless,
But joy you bring.
Nothing to say,
And nothing to do,
But somehow or other
Your dad loves you.
Only a baby:
You do not know
What's in the world
Of weal or woe.
And yet as you lie
In your crib you're all
The world to your dad.
If you are so small.
Only a baby,
And yet you start
The fount of hope
In a weary heart.
Though tiny and weak,
You scatter here
A world of joy
And a world of cheer.
You're only a baby,
And yet for you,
What wouldn't a mother
Or father do?
Sacrifice everything
Life holds dear,
For the tiny mite
That is coming here.

The Institute.

The Washington County Teachers'
Institute convened at the Graded School Monday morning. All of the teachers in the county are present except four, a better attendance than ever secured before.

Prof. J. T. C. Noe, a former resident of this place, but now a member of the faculty of State University, Lexington, Ky., is the instructor.
Up to this date the proceedings have been full of interest, and almost every teacher has responded when called upon by the Superintendent and it seems now that we will have the most successful Institute ever held in the county.

There will be a meeting of the Institute at the Court House at 8 o'clock on Thursday evening in which various subjects of an educational nature will be discussed, closing with a lecture by Prof. Noe. This session will be free and all are invited to be present.

A full report of the proceedings of the Institute will be given in our next issue.

The Yankee Pass.

(Original.)

It was at a period soon after the close of the Revolutionary war that Aaron Whitney, a Yankee peddler, passed through the Mohawk valley on his way to Albany. The day was Sunday, and there was a law among the Dutchmen of those parts that no one should travel on that day. Moreover, there was as much antipathy between Dutchmen and Yankees as there is between cats and mice. How the Dutch ever left Holland to make homes in a new country beyond the sea no historian has ever explained. For when a Dutchman was once settled anywhere
he never moved. Not so the Yankee.
He would take up a piece of land, improve it, sell it and go somewhere else.

"Mein Gott," exclaimed one of the deacons of the Dutch church, "the Yankee traveling on the Lord's day!
Was ever such blasphemy? Let us take him before Justice Van der Donk, who will doubtless mete out his punishment!"
So they took Aaron before the justice. He was sitting under an apple tree near his house, with a glass of schnapps beside him and a long clay pipe in his mouth. This is not mentioned as an unusual position for the great man, for all the long day he sat in no other. As Aaron was taken before him the peddler saw a pair of blue eyes looking at him from a window in the house. There was something in the young girl who owned them that attracted him, and there was that in the peddler's sly step and twinkling eye to catch her fancy.

"What you travel Sunday for?" asked Van der Donk, taking his pipe out of his mouth and looking sternly at the peddler.

"I'm going to Albany and from there down east. I have sold my wares and want to get home."

"H'm," said the Dutchman, "you stay here till tomorrow. I don't want you to bring the wrath of the Lord
down on us."

The peddler threw off his pack, making a virtue of necessity. At least that was the appearance of it. Really he was quite willing to remain over-awhile that he might look upon the fair
face of the justice's daughter, Katrina, who had looked upon him out of the blue eyes. And the girl was equally desirous of seeing more of the engaging peddler. Why it is no man has ever told us, but peddlers are proverbially fascinating to women. Perhaps it is the same audacity that enables them to sell their wares. At any rate, the peddler, leaving his pack for security,
went off to the other end of the apple orchard and waited for the girl to come to him, never for a moment doubting that she would do so.

And she did. She had been long desireous of pouring out her dissatisfaction at the life she led to some person in whom she had confidence, and she felt sure that she could confide in the Yankee. She told him that her father compelled her to do the work, while he smoked and drank schnapps; that she had a thousand dollars in a bank at Albany left her by her mother for which her father was trustee and that he would not let her marry. The peddler told her that she needed a husband to work for her, and she would find this much easier and pleasanter
than working for some one else.

Now, the justice, thinking the peddler
in a hurry to go on, when the shades of night came down, he imagined that for a consideration he would pass him. The Yankee declared that Sunday ended at sunset. The Dutchman scouted such theology, maintaining that it lasted till sunrise the next day. The Yankee finally consented to pay. The justice, who either could not write or was too fat of too lazy to write or could not write in English as well as in Dutch, told the Yankee to write a pass.
Aaron took up the quill and wrote in an illegible hand on a bit of paper.
The Dutchman ran his sleepy eyes over it, grunted "Goot!" signed it and handed it back to him. Anthony folded it, put it in his pocket, took up his pack and departed. The justice got up from his chair and by the aid of two canes got himself into the house, where supper was served him by his daughter.
Then, after a couple of hours' smoke,
he went to bed.

The next morning when he woke up and called Katrina, as usual, there was no response. The old man roused his neighbors, who hunted high and low for the damsel, but she was not to be found. That she had gone with the peddler never occurred to the justice or any of the stupid neighbors. If they connected her disappearance with him
it was that he might have murdered her.

Two days passed, and Katrina did not reappear. Then one morning there came a letter to old Van der Donk.
Since he was not used to receiving letters he felt sure it contained information of his lost daughter. He helped himself with his canes to the apple tree and got one of his neighbors to bring his pipe and his schnapps. After he had taken a pull at the one and lighted the other he broke the letter's seal. It contained a statement closing his account with the bank in Albany
where his daughter's legacy was kept.
There was one inclosure. The Dutchman looked at it frontward, sideways and upside down. He could make nothing of it. Then he called the nearest notary, who read it and told him that it was an order for the bank to pay to Aaron Whitney his daughter's legacy, with accumulated interest. In ten minutes more a light broke into the old man's brain.

"Yah," he said reflectively, "it's a Yankee pass!"

Falcon: Miss Loretta Moberly, an aged spinster, who made her home with the family of Mr. Floyd Walker on the Lebanon and St. Mary's pike, died suddenly Thursday night of last week of dropsy.

Late yesterday afternoon Chief of Police W. A. Brown, while examining a sewer at the railroad crossing on Spalding avenue, was struck and thrown violently to the ground by the
slightly mashed, his left shoulder badly dislocated and left temple bruised.
While not dangerously hurt, it will several weeks before he will be out.

Wm. T. Elder, postmaster at Atchison, Taylor county, was tried before
U. S. Commissioner, C. C. Boldrick,
Tuesday, charged with embezzling postoffice money funds to the amount of $316.38. He was arrested and prosecuted by P. O. Inspector S. A. Susong.

He admitted his guilt and paid his shortage, but was held to the October term of the U. S. District Court in the sum of $500. He gave the bond.

Mr. Theodore Weber had a marvelous escape from death Tuesday afternoon at the plant of the W. E. Merkey Mill Company. The machinery had been stopped and Mr. Weber was crouched inside of a twelve foot pulley wheel on the third floor tightening a cap. Not knowing of his dangerous position, the fireman started the engine, and the pully wheel began to turn. Mr. Weber, with rare presence of mind, yelled for the engine to stop and prepared to jump before the large pulley wheel gained speed. The twelve foot wheel turned twice before he could get out, and in falling his left leg caught in a belt which would have drawn him into the machinery overhead had not the engineer, fortunately hearing his warning shout, stopped the machinery by thrusting a heavy piece of timber
through the drive wheel, and immediately shutting off steam. Mr. Weber is, considerably bruised and that he escaped with his life is truly wonderful.

It is a fact rats are becoming almost as numerous as the common housefly, and as a consequence are contributing their quota of annoyance to humanity in general. A well known farmer of near Lebanon, informs us that they are playing havoc with his cornfield, and that they are so savage and ravenous they pull the tender young stalks from the ground and use them as weapons in attacking each other, thus doing untold damage to his crop.

The above may be doubted by some people, but the following from a lady living right in the heart of Lebanon must be taken as a fact. She says that the other morning while she was occupied with her household duties, her little five year old daughter was sitting on the floor eating a biscuit, when a large rat ran into the room and snatching the bread from the child's hand scampered away.

NEW SHORT STORIES

Fighting Bob and the Kaiser.
When "Fighting Bob" Evans attended the opening of the Kiel canal in 1905 Emperor William one day boarded Evans' flagship and in course of conversation asked the admiral how long it would take him to close all water-tight ports ready for action.
"Two minutes," said Evans.
The admiral was somewhat astonished when the Kaiser said, "Let me see you do it—do it yourself." Evans tried the siren, but there was not enough steam to blow it.
"Ah!" said the delighted Kaiser. "You cannot close your bulkheads!" Evans then touched a general alarm button, and in an instant men came swarming up from every part of the ship, while Emperor William held his watch. In one minute and a half all doors were closed and the ship was ready for action.
"Fine!" said the emperor, with a look of chagrin. "Fine!" And then to celebrate the feat, wine and cigars were brought into the admiral's quarters.

LOOKING OUT, HE SAW THE KAISER.
The Kaiser liked the wine and the admiral so much that he stayed until 2 o'clock in the morning, when Evans thought he had seen the last of him. But at 4 o'clock the same morning an orderly knocked at his door and, touching his cap respectfully, said, "I have the honor to inform you, sir, that the emperor of Germany is just passing the ship in his yacht, and the emperor is aboard."
"What?" demanded Evans, entirely forgetting his dignity as an admiral for the moment. Then, looking out of an air port, he saw the Kaiser in his white flannels steering the Meteor as if he had never taken a drink in his life.
"Well, I'll be hanged!" said "Fighting Bob" as he rolled back into his bunk. But he could not help thinking, "Where has the Kaiser spent the time between 2 and 4 o'clock?"—San Francisco Call.

The Orator's Rebuke.
Senator Beveridge at a dinner in Washington last month told a story about a statesman of the past.
"Like many a statesman of the past," said Senator Beveridge, "he drank too much. And one Fourth of July morning on a platform hung with flags and flowers before the courthouse of a western country town, facing an audience of farmers and their families that had come from miles around, the statesman arose to deliver the Independence day oration in a slightly intoxicated state. He was not incapable of an oration, but his untimely gait, his flushed face and disordered attire spoke ill of him, and the audience hissed and booed. He held up his hand. They were silent. Then he laughed scornfully and said:
"Ladies and gentlemen, when a statesman of my prominence consents to appear in such a little, one horse town as this he must be either drunk or crazy. I prefer to be considered an inebriate."

A Change For the Better.
Miss Lillian B. Hill, the advertising expert, said at a clothiers' banquet in Grand Rapids:
"I am glad you clothiers now advertise, now print pictures of men's and boys' fashions. Thus you smarten up the country, and you help to abolish the cutting down of the father's clothes for the son.
"You have educated our little boys to dress, a few of them could bear to wear their fathers' garments made over by their mothers' awkward hands as in days of yore.
"It was not always so. I remember how in the distant past my little brother rushed whimpering into my room one night.
"Oh, dear," he whined, 'pa's had his beard shaved off, and now I guess I've got to wear the old red thing!'"

Too Much For the Old Man.
"With Ed Foy," said the tragedian, "I made the other Sunday an excursion into the country.
"The country, fresh and green, was beautiful in the June sunshine. An old man and his daughter, a girl of eighteen, had a little booth where they threw baseballs at dolls, getting a cigar for every hit.
"Foy" throws phenomenally well, and he had soon won thirty cigars. These he presented, with a courtly bow, to the young girl.
"Thanks," said she, smiling prettily, 'they'll do for father.'
"Last Sunday Foy and I made the same excursion again. The booth stood in the same spot, but now the girl was running it alone.
"Ah," said Foy, 'they've done for father!'"

A GREAT LINE OF FREE ATTRACTIONS.

In line with its policy to put on only the greatest attractions that can be secured, the Kentucky State Fair management has closed a contract with Frank P. Spellman of Cleveland, O., for what is believed to be the best line of free attractions ever seen at a Southern Fair. These attractions will be seen in front of the grandstand each day, including Spellman's Performing Bears and ten other free attractions, such as trapeze acts, mid-air performances, etc.

A Japanese troupe of gymnasts and acrobats, excelling in their line anything ever seen before in Louisville, has been engaged especially for the State Fair, and will be seen exclusively in Kentucky at that time. In addition to the more thrilling of the well-known acts of balancing and gymnastic work, they have devised several features, which will be for the first time introduced here.

The thriller of free attractions, however, will be the troupe of trapeze performers, including several men, women and a tiny tot which is hurled by its heels twenty-five feet through the air and is safely caught by one of its elders. Accidents do not occur in this act, but despite their perfection a net is spread for a possible emergency, so that even if an accident should occur, no fatality would result.

The shows already engaged for the "Stretch" are Fereria's Trained Wild Animal Congress, the Dicky Wild West Show and Cow Boy Indians; the Dark Town Fire Brigade; Heaven and Hell Mechanical Device; Johnstown Flood; Palace of Illusions; Electric Palace, and many others which will be added later. This is enough to insure every visitor that there will be something doing every minute.

EXHIBITS AND CLASSIFICATIONS

At the Kentucky State Fair.

Entries of exhibits in all Livestock Departments, except for horses, mules and jack stock, will close Monday, Sept. 7th, at 6 p. m., and in all other departments prior to Thursday, Sept. 10th. Entries of horses, mules and jacks will positively close at 12 o'clock the day before the exhibition this year, as there will be a printed program of the horse show, giving the name of the owner, the name and color of the horse, and the number of the entry, which must correspond with the arm number on the person riding, driving or exhibiting same. It is absolutely essential that the entry giving this information be filed with the Secretary by noon of the day preceding the exhibition.

Exhibits must be placed by 9 o'clock Monday morning, Sept. 7th, and exhibitors in all departments have been so notified.

There are 1,328 different rings in which liberal prizes are offered, while there is a total of over 300 different lots. The horse classification is subdivided into classes suitable for light harness, five-gaited saddlers, three-gaited saddlers, roadsters, combined harness and five-gaited saddlers, plantation saddlers, runabouts, high stepers, Shetland ponies and fine horses. The mules and jack stock are well taken care of.

In the Beef Cattle Department the classification is complete for Short-horns, Herefords, Polled Durhams, Aberdeen-Angus and Red Polls. In the Dairy Cattle department Jerseys, Holstein-Friesians, Guernseys, Ayrshires are recognized. The Swine Department includes Berkshires, Poland-Chinas, Durocs, Jerseys, Chester Whites, Tamworths, Hampshire and Yorkshires. In the Sheep Department the following breeds are recognized: Shropshires, Cotswolds, Southdowns, American Merinos, Oxford, Hampshires, Dorsets, Ramboulllets and Lincoln, also a class for Angora Goats. The Poultry classification covers every known standard variety, and the same is true of the Pigeon Department, the prize money being materially increased over last year's list. The Departments for Vegetables and Melons, Field Seed and Grain and Tobacco contain classes for almost every product grown on the farm. In Horticulture there are hundreds of prizes offered for apples, peaches, pears, grapes, etc. Plants and Flowers, one of the most attractive exhibits at a fair, will be larger and better than ever before. In no department is there a more interesting collection of premiums than in that set aside for woman's work, children's work and table luxuries.

The Perfect Carriage Horse at the State Fair.

In order to develop a perfect carriage horse, the United States Government appointed a Commission to investigate the desired points that should be possessed. In order to stimulate the breeding of this class of animals, the Kentucky State Fair offers a $75 trophy and a $50 cup for the best mare and stallion, according to the following government classification. The points desired by the carriage horse are given in detail in the State Fair catalogue.

A State Fair ribbon has the backing of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. It is a trophy of great sentimental and advertising value aside from the cash premium which accompanies it.

For catalogue, entry blanks or other information, write J. W. Newman, Secretary, 320 Paul Jones Building, Louisville, Ky.

A Tramp's Dream

[Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClellan.]
One summer's day when Farmer Bingham was washing his hands at the kitchen door preparatory to the "Monday meal" a tramp turned in from the highway and asked for a bite to eat. He was asked if he would work for it, and after a look in the direction of the cornfield and a shake of the head he replied:

"I'm just out of the hospital with three broken ribs and am not strong enough, but I'll do a heap better than to handle a hoe. I turned in here because I dreamed of this place last night while I was sleeping in a barn five miles away. Yes, it's the same place—house, barn, orchard, blue pump in the well and everything else. It's just as if my dream had been photographed."

"What sort of a dream?" asked the farmer, but without much curiosity.

"I thought I stood right there under that pear tree and saw you come out from the barn. You had an iron box on your shoulder, and you could hardly stagger under it. You threw it down just where that old hen was scratching and got the ax and broke it open. Gosh, what?"

"Well, the $20 gold pieces went flying all around here like snowflakes in winter. It was the beautifullest sight my eyes ever beheld—great big golden coins, and how they did clink together! It was their clinking that woke me."

"But there's nothing in dreams," said the farmer, although he was beginning to turn pale around the mouth.

"Mebbe not, mebbe not, but I never had one yet that didn't come true. Are you willing to let me search your barn and glimpse what I find?"

"You sit down here and I'll bring you out some dinner, and then we'll talk further about it."

Farmer Bingham was so fool. He was a young man of twenty-five and was accounted above the average in sharpness, but the dream hit him. He had scarcely related it to his wife when she exclaimed:

"You carry that tramp out the biggest dinner he ever had and then pump him dry and get rid of him."

After the tramp had eaten his fill he offered to help them about the box. They made excuses.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "I understand I perfectly understand. You don't want me around when the box is found and opened. You don't want me to hear the clink-clink of their yaller boys. You think I'll claim a sheer for dreamin'. Well, I'll move on and let you have all the fun to yourselves."

The tramp was watched out of sight, and then the couple went to the barn and began their search. They had put in two hours and were still at it when Mrs. Bingham's husband said:

"The idea was not to give her the slightest hint about the treasure, but in the course of half an hour she had picked the information from her daughter. Then she said:

"Amelia, you want to see that you get your rights in this thing. Half that money belongs to you, and you want to stand up for it."

"That George will do what's right about it, of course."

"There's no of course about it. The minute he gets that box in his hands his greed will be aroused. He won't want to give you enough to buy an apron out of it."

That old barn was almost turned bottom side up, but no luck was found. The farmer's brother came around next morning on an errand, and when he found George crawling out from under the boggle he wanted an explanation and had to have it. As soon as he got it he said:

"You look out for Amelia. If ever I saw avarice in a woman's eyes it's in hers. She'll want at least half of the money to buy groceries with."

Before noon the wife's father and two brothers and sisters were on hand, and after them came the husband's father and other brother. There were wrangling and quarreling from the start. When the dirt floor of the smokehouse was spaded up, and the spade struck an old tomato can, there were muttering and shouting and swearing. (When the farmer prepared to drain off the waters of the goose pond and refused to pledge himself to an equal division, there was a fight out of which grew bloody noses and black eyes.) Of course the affair attracted the attention of the neighbors, and they came by the dozen to mix in and help along things. The barn was pulled almost to pieces, the ground dug up in fifty different places and an old well on the premises cleaned out. The house and cellar were searched, straw stacks tipped over, and there was fever in the veins of the searchers. The farmer and his wife had reached the point where they no longer spoke to each other, their kin were quarreling at every possible excuse, and the county sheriff had about concluded to take a hand in it when the old tramp who had dreamed was seen turning into the gate again. A rush was made for him, and as soon as he could get his breath he explained:

"They call me 'Truthful Willie' because I never told a lie in my life. When I made a mistake I try to rectify it as soon as possible. I find that I made one here. Come to think things over, it was not here that I saw the man with the box of dug up. It was on the next farm, and his name is Jones. He spells it with a big J, and it was a barrel instead of a box of gold pieces. Ladies and gentlemen—"

And then he was flying for his life.

PAIN'S BIG MIMIC CITY

Pain's Big Pompeian Spectacle Each Night at the State Fair.

No scenic representation could be more realistic than the magnificent view which is spread out before the spectator in Pain's elaborate production "Last Days of Pompeii." The scenic city spreads out over an area of four acres of ground, and so perfect is the work of the painter in the perspective that one seems to be looking upon a real city and a landscape that stretches seemingly away for miles. Real massive buildings twenty to fifty feet-high, loom up in the foreground, representing the palaces, temples, etc., of the picturesque ancient city, while huge triumphal arches adorn its streets. Towering above all these is the ever beautiful but treacherous Mt. Vesuvius. A force of over forty skilled scenic mechanics are necessary to place this scenic city in position each day, in spite of every time and labor saving device that can be provided.

Pompeii is to be destroyed again. Not the ancient city that nestled among the Italian hills at the foot of Mt. Vesuvius, but the big scenic city in Pain's vast spectacle of "Last Days of Pompeii," that will be seen at the Kentucky State Fair. This mimic city represents with ideal accuracy the fated city that perished in the First century of the Christian era. The scenery under this production covers an area of fully four acres of ground, and so deceptive is the perspective that it appears to spread out over many times that space. The view is said to be marvellously correct and historically accurate, being like what the archaeologists now suppose the ancient city was at the time it was destroyed. The whole display, of the city, of half a hundred are 1 1/2 miles and calcium is most beautiful. As one sits in the vast amphitheater and gazes on the scene before him he sees the tall Vesuvius with its head raised against the sky; below are the houses, temples, arches, etc., and to properly represent these latter many real structures twenty to forty feet in height are blended in with the "picture" in the background. The scene opens with a fete day in the ancient city and for upward of an hour the audience is entertained with a full production of the sports and feats of the hippodrome, exciting chariot races, sensational aerial and acrobatic feats, pretty ballets, imposing and gorgeously costumed processions, choruses, music, etc. The tragic dramatic episodes of the spectacle are shown in pantomime. The fete are interrupted by the terrific eruption of Vesuvius and the destruction of the city by the earthquake, which is a scene thrilling beyond description. Under the action of all the skill and ingenuity of Pain's artists. Following these stirring scenes there is presented a beautiful exhibition of fireworks, and those who have seen these pyrotechnics of the famous artist never realized the full meaning of the never-ending display of the "Last Days of Pompeii."

Railroads will make special rates from nearly all surrounding towns on the date of this exhibition. The most magnificent display of pyrotechnics ever witnessed in this section of the state is promised in connection with Pain's big spectacle. This display is, in fact, the crowning "feature" of the marvelous exhibition, and as Pain has long enjoyed the reputation of "king of pyrotechnists" in both England and America, it is more than likely we shall behold something unusually fine in pyrotechnical novelties on this occasion. Among the most elaborate "set pieces" shown will be a mammoth revolving fountain of fire; Alladin's Jeweled Palace, and the beautiful Pyramids. These are only a few of the larger special pieces that will be shown. For the edification of the little folks there will be a large number of comic fireworks devices, such as the "Devil Among the Tailors," the huge "Snake" element, the flying pig, the acrobatic monkey, the flying fish, etc.

Women Inclined To Constipation

Great Care Should Be Taken Not to Use Violent Cathartics

Women, owing to their peculiar functions, are more or less liable to constipation and many of them owe their continued ill health to the pill habit. A well known physician lays the majority of cases of food breath, bad complexion, disordered stomach, sick headache, and female weakness to constipation and the constant use of violent cathartics to overcome it.

We believe women will be glad to learn of a safe reliable bowel and stomach remedy that is pleasant to take and that will produce the most healthy and natural daily movements without pain or gripe and in a short time establish a permanent cure. It is so effective it has cured cases of 20 years' standing and yet so mild and safe thousands of mothers give it to their babies. Jennie Gresham, Nashville, Tenn., says: "I suffered almost death with torpid liver and indigestion and Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gave me quick relief." Sister M. Berchman, Mt. St. Mary's Academy, Oklahoma City, says: "We have found Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin satisfactory as a gentle laxative and stomach tonic."

Mrs. Myrtle Mather, Chicago, says: "My daughter was troubled since birth with constipation and sick headache. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin cured her." Dr. W. M. Powers, New Philadelphia, Ohio, says: "Twenty-three years ago I was taken with stomach trouble. Three years ago I had become so weak I could hardly walk. I took Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and today am as well as ever." Druggists sell it at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Soft Drinks!

What the Doctors Say:

We, the practicing physicians of Elizabethtown, take pleasure in recommending the use of the beverages manufactured by the Durham Bottling Works of this city to be pure and healthful. We find the water used by them in their drinks according to chemical analysis to be as pure and as good as can be found. Both the water and the syrups are filtered before use. As they take so much pains in washing and cleaning their bottles their drinks cannot be filthy or impure. We find they use no chemical sweetener or harmful ingredients of any kind in their drinks, but use nothing but pure fruit flavors and natural acids. These drinks can be freely used without interfering with physicians' prescriptions or any medicine and in some cases we recommend the use of them in connection with medicines as they will be quite helpful to the weak and delicate.
